

Pacific Life Re are Pleased to Announce the Appointment of Dr Rob Rosa to their Chief Medical Officer Panel

London, 14th March 2018 – Pacific Life Re is pleased to announce the appointment of Dr Rob Rosa to their expert panel of Chief Medical Officers (CMOs).

Dr Rosa has worked across the insurance industry for over 10 years as a Chief Medical Officer. He graduated from the University of Wales College of Medicine in Cardiff in 1999, and achieved Merit in the membership examinations with the Royal College of General Practitioners in 2006. Formerly Senior Partner of an inner city Primary Care Centre in the south of England, he was previously appointed as an Undergraduate Clinical GP Tutor and Examiner at the University of Southampton School of Medicine. Under Dr Rosa's leadership his practice achieved high quality and outcome framework scores for patients with all chronic diseases and consistently delivered on NHS targets. He left clinical practice to concentrate fully on insurance medicine in 2017, but has maintained his interest in teaching and education.

Carl Padget, Head of Underwriting and Claims for Pacific Life Re Europe said: "I am delighted that Rob will be providing his support and knowledge to our underwriting and claims team. As our claims book matures, Rob's expertise and experience in long-term disability claims will prove invaluable."

Carl also added "I am also very excited that Rob will be involved in the development of our client training material. His skills in this area will be a fantastic addition to our overall underwriting and claims proposition in the UK and Ireland."

Rob brings a GP approach to underwriting and claims handling and specialises in functional cases with psychological elements. He has commented and presented widely on how NHS changes and primary care behaviours affect the insurance industry and has helped develop systems to improve the return of clinical information.

Rob commented: "I am thrilled to join Pacific Life Re and look forward to working with the underwriting and claims team as they continue to build on the level of technical expertise they provide their clients and expand their proposition further."
